

Are you a Sales Support Superstar?!

If you are a sales support superstar and can prove it, we want to meet you! UV Pure Technologies is a global award winner, rapidly growing, early-stage company in the water purification industry with proprietary technology that gives our team a unique competitive advantage over our competition. We are positioned to grow aggressively in a number of international markets, and we need your help to drive our growth!

At UV Pure, our purpose is to help ensure safe water, preventing water-borne diseases and saving lives. Our patented Crossfire Technology® truly is the “best mousetrap on the market”, purifying water better than any other available solution. Although we distribute into several countries, our primary short-term focus is on the Canadian and U.S. markets. This is where you come in.

To help us maximize our sales efforts, we are looking for a rockstar Inside Sales Associate to provide support to our outside sales team. Your responsibilities will include researching, calling, qualifying and initial presentations to leads for the outside sales team, some account management, quoting, customer service, online marketing, Salesforce.com CRM management, liaising with government agencies and much more. Some travel will be required for North American and international trade shows. It will be a challenging but very rewarding position, knowing that with each unit sold we are helping to keep people healthy by purifying water.

This position is NOT for everyone. To be successful, you must be able to manage a lot of information, act quickly, turn on a dime when needed, deal with rejection from clients and be persistent enough to stay on task, even when the going gets tough. Ideally you will have some experience in sales or sales support as well as exposure to working with engineered technical products. A university degree is important, as is interest or experience in environmental or clean technologies; you will require excellent written and oral communication skills (English is a must) as well as strong computer skills.

At UV Pure, we are very serious about building our corporate culture. As such, you will be expected to live our core values of: Customer Focus, Teamwork, Results Orientation, a Positive Attitude, and Honesty. If successful, you will be part of a team that is truly making a difference in the world!
